Electronic medical records could reduce the time required for life expectancy providers to issue life expectancy reports, and thereby reduce the time required to fully settle a policy. The US healthcare market – both providers like hospitals and physician practices to payer side of insurers and the like – is actively trying to create structured data warehouses or data pools to aggregate doctor records, pharma usage and health telemetry of all types, including that from wearables. The expectation is that with technology one can create near instant profiles of survival that will become the basis of settling a life insurance policy.

The Share Class is reporting a performance of -0.02% for the month of November. One maturity for a death benefit of $ 0.03M was registered in the HIV segment; two maturities for a total face value of $0.2M were registered in the non-HIV segment this month.
